(2) All farm land will be eligible to be assessed on the basis of "use value." Additionally, assessors are required to use the productive capability values which are to be established by the state tax commission annually. The values set by the state tax commission may be disapproved by concurrent resolution of the general assembly;

(3) Several technical and clarifying changes are made to the roll back law, the records that are to be maintained by the assessor and the forms used by the assessor's office. Also, boat docks are specifically included in the items declared to be personal property. The definition of deferred maintenance is clarified to specifically exclude certain maintenance and construction activities;

(4) For implementation of the new constitutional provisions providing for classification of real property, this act defines agricultural, residential and commercial property. The new assessment ratio for each class of property will be determined according to a formula. The state tax commission will report the percentages, calculated according to the formula, in December 1984. The general assembly will have until February 1985 to override these percentages and adopt alternative assessment ratios;

(5) The completion date for the first general reassessment conducted on a statewide basis is December 31, 1984, with each county entering the results on its tax rolls as of January 1, 1983. Any county amending its reassessment plan by January 1, 1984, to show how completed reassessment work will be maintained until implemented, will become eligible for an additional $2 per parcel reimbursement. Counties amending plans to show a need to maintain values for part of the year will become eligible for a fraction of the additional $2 reimbursement;

(6) County boards of equalization are given authority to begin appeals hearings after May 31, if it is determined necessary in order to hear all appeal cases arising from general reassessment. Also, hearing officers of the state tax commission are given authority to decide property tax appeals for the commission. The handling of taxes paid under protest will be changed substantially and impounded tax money will earn interest;
